Scienceceuticals Expands Marketing Department
Summerville, SC Facility Responding to Customer Demand

SUMMERVILLE, SC – Scienceceuticals, Inc., a leading skin care products manufacturer, is pleased to announce the expansion of its internal marketing team with its second hire of the year, Leanna Mobley. Mobley will be assisting with internal and external communications, including marketing, public relations, and branding.

“I am thrilled to become a part of such a well-respected and mission-oriented team,” said Mobley, “Scienceceuticals is a great company. In this position I will be able to benefit both customers and employees.”

Mobley graduated from Gardner-Webb University in 2008 with a bachelor’s degree in Public Relations. She has past experience in sales and business development for both commercial and federal contracting companies. As a federal business development executive, she helped software companies market and sell their technologies to government agencies.

“I truly feel that Leanna has what it takes to excel in the contract manufacturing industry,” said Jennifer Heisler, Director of Marketing. “I am looking forward to working with her as I know she’ll be a great asset to Scienceceuticals.”

Don Hayden, President and CEO, also commented on Mobley’s arrival stating that the company is excited to have Mobley’s “knowledge and enthusiasm on board with Scienceceuticals.”

Scienceceuticals also recently announced the hiring of a new account manager. The company’s success and growth is a major factor in its expansion of its staff, along with the opening of its new west coast manufacturing facility in Reno, NV.
